About Manville® Roofing Systems Phenolic Foam Roof Insulation & Possible Steel Deck Corrosion

From January 1989 to February 1992, Manville® Roofing Systems produced UltraGard® Premier, a glass mat faced phenolic foam roof insulation, which is no longer manufactured by us.

Recent observations suggest there is a potential for phenolic foam roof insulation to contribute to the corrosion of steel roof decks. In extreme conditions, where insulation is wet or damaged, the corrosion reaction could progress to a point which could weaken or penetrate an area in the metal deck.

Therefore, where evidence of wet or damaged phenolic insulation exists, or severe deck corrosion is observed, care should be taken in operating equipment, moving heavy loads and walking across the roof.

IF YOU HAVE MANVILLE® ROOFING SYSTEMS PHENOLIC FOAM INSULATION ON YOUR ROOF, PLEASE CALL US AT 1-800-345-9602.
